@Jessica_Traveler

ABOUT

After losing my husband to cancer in 2011, I made my passion for travel a priority in my life. Finally in 2021, I traded my career as a pharmacist for van life and full time travel as a photographer, travel blogger, and content creator shortly after my second partner went through cancer. I am based in Washington state and focus on outdoor adventure, active lifestyle, cultural experiences, sustainability, and eco-luxury. It's important to me to be authentic with my audience, inspire them to pursue their dreams, while helping them plan their travel itineraries and discover new places.
